

Mistaken for a sexy elementary school student

Yesterday in the evening, for some reason, a lot of elementary school children were playing in the park with chairs.

I heard one of the children's mothers say, "Elementary school children..."

Then, a soccer ball that one of the children was kicking rolled towards me, and one of the children's mothers picked it up and said, "Sorry,"

and I realized that she had mistaken me for an older elementary school girl because she was too tall.

Also, on my way home, a little boy was playing on the sidewalk and jumped over the fence and stumbled in front of me, almost falling...

Looking back, I should have told him not to do anything reckless or he'd get hurt.

Well, I'm a university student, but I think it's fine to look young.

In reality, I have a body like an adult video actress, so sometimes I get turned on by it in my own way.

The word "volleyball" always comes up.

By the way, I understand that there are mothers who don't know me, and those who do know me know that I'm not an elementary school student.