We need to expand all options

*Results should be accepted
* And we need to find a solution
*It should not affect other aspects of daily life (Because the rest of your daily life is completely irrelevant)

1. Network Specialist Exam... I failed... I got 47.60 points in the morning session, which was less than 60%, so I was done... I was right not to say I was confident... I checked the answer wrong... I'm not a perfect person either...

2) The negotiation to have the electricity bill paid by the 1st of next month fell through... I was told I could only wait until July 15th, so I applied to another company...

Result → Change of power company completed... Just wanted to let you know that it is not a local company...

Regarding ①, in a sense there is a need to compromise, but regarding ②, it is important to immediately switch to a solution mindset because it is a part of daily life infrastructure
Regarding ②, this is not the time to waver
Also, this is a quick action and result based on past experience, and I have already published the content of experience in my previous work

That's all