

Immortality PART2

PART 1 is not posted on the website, but it is available on Amazon... It's a work from quite some time ago, and the cover features a mannequin from when I was a student at Shiseido Gakuen.

The habit of feeling afraid of non-human creatures

1. Crows (non-spiritual fear of germs)
2. Dogs and other animals
3. Plants

Even when walking on the sidewalk, I walk on the side without vegetation.

4. When I come home from riding my bicycle, I always wipe the tires and pedals with disinfectant wipes before bringing it inside.

5. Even after going shopping at the supermarket with my suitcase, I always wipe the wheels with disinfectant wipes before bringing it inside.

In other words, we are afraid of things we cannot see. To take an extreme example...

I don't feel anything in particular when it comes to people with huge bodies like professional wrestlers, or intimidating people, or when it comes to people who shout loudly, I wonder at first what's going on, but then I don't feel anything.

Because we are the same human beings... and we can see and understand everything...

As I mentioned in a previous work,

Bullets... they're scary because you can't see them... but if you can see them, you can avoid them.

Apart from handguns, with rifles, you can't be sure if you've hit the target or not, and the person who's been hit can't know where the bullet came from unless you think about it.

That's why you use binoculars to check your target when shooting.

By the way, today, I was told again that you are a high school student, and that you are younger than I imagined... Thank you... I have been hearing the same thing for decades now... Thank you.

Also, by the way...

If you want to be a butt, the name of the political party would be

If you want to be a butt, the name of the candidate would be sneezing, yawning, stretching, or farting.

I'm not joking, if you had even just 3 million yen at that time, it would definitely become a reality, as we know from various cases up to now.
